All League Joint Code of Conduct

San Francisco Soccer Leagues

The following is a Code of Conduct that each parent and spectator must abide by to ensure that our youth participate in a positive environment, applicable for the complete soccer year (Fall, Winter, Spring and Summer Seasons) for all Mission Youth Soccer League registered players and spectators.

It is the goal of all San Francisco Youth Soccer Leagues to develop player soccer skills as well as self-esteem and self confidence. Players should play their best while learning to win and lose with good sportsmanship. Coaches are responsible for the conduct of their spectators and are advised to assign an assistant coach or team parent to monitor the activity of their spectators during the game.

Safety is a primary concern of all Leagues for all players and spectators. Safety does not only include immediate physical harm but emotional harm as well. Therefore the following rules apply:

- No hanging, pull-ups or climbing on goals, by anyone.
- All coaches and parents must be familiar with the signs, symptoms, and warnings of possible concussions. This includes the stages of seeking emergency care or medical attention, and receiving a medical release from a doctor before returning to the field.
- Location of Spectators: At all games spectators are to stand back at least 3 feet from the sideline. This allows the players to play the sidelines and everyone to see. Spectators and Coaches may never stand behind either goal line. Spectators should be on the opposite side of the field from the coaches and players (except when there is only one side available). Spectators, players and coaches are required to abide by all posted Rec and Park field usage guidelines including, but not limited to: all spectators must stand BEHIND the FENCE at all times at the Polo Fields, Franklin, Garfield, Beach Chalet and any other newly renovated gated field.
- Spectators May Not Coach: Spectators are to provide support and are never to provide direction or instruction to any participant, including your own child. Spectators may not provide direction or instructions to any player. This is the job of the licensed coach or assistant coach. Positive cheering and encouragement is fine.
- No Referee Interaction: This means SPECTATORS MAY NOT DISAGREE WITH, QUESTION, CRITICIZE THE REFEREE or SPEAK TO THE REFEREE BEFORE, DURING OR AFTER A GAME. THIS RULE APPLIES EVEN IF THE REFEREE MAKES A MISTAKE. Every year we lose many referees because they do not like the abusive treatment that they receive from spectators during the season. Referees do make mistakes and your coach has a method for providing feedback to the League after the game if the referee needs constructive criticism. If you have an issue with your referee, speak to your coach after the game. The coach or spectators may not object to a referee's call or judgment on the field either during or after the game. The coach or spectators may not question a referee at any time. The referee is not required to give your team a warning; he/she may merely report the misconduct after the game. Each League will sanction teams, coaches and/or spectators who violate this rule. Due to the shortage of referees, sometimes you may not have a referee for your game and the coaches will act as referee. These acting referees are entitled to the same respect.
- How Parents and Spectators Can Help: Follow this code of conduct and hold other parents and spectators accountable to the code. Please help your coach by arriving on time with your player dressed in his/her official uniform, shin guards with socks over the top and shoes. Make sure your player has a water bottle available to them. Make sure your player attends practice where he/she will have a chance to learn. Please cheer for everyone. When you have a question about game day, times or rules, your first point of reference should always be your team manager or coach. Team staff are in charge with the most up-to-date information for their specific teams.
- Redefine A Winner: Redefine what it means to be a "Winner" in your conversations with players and other fans. Winners are people who make maximum effort, continue to learn and improve, and do not let mistakes, or fear of making mistakes stop them. Learning from mistakes is part of the game. Also, remember that all children are born with different abilities and develop at different rates. The true measure of how a child is doing is not in comparison to others but rather in comparison to his/her prior best. If you only judge the success of a game by whether your child's team wins, you should expect to be unhappy half of the time (our goal is to make sure that each team experiences both winning and losing).

• No Alcoholic Beverages or Smoking: The City of San Francisco stipulates that no smoking or alcoholic beverages of any kind are allowed at youth sporting events.

Help make this a positive experience for everyone. Teams and parents who do not follow this Code of Conduct will be sanctioned. A parent/guardian must sign page 2 of this document.

I have read the San Francisco Soccer All League Spectator Code of Conduct and agree to abide by its terms. I understand that during or after any game involving my child in youth soccer I may not:

1. Question a call by a referee or assistant referee.
2. Criticize the referee or assistant referee.
3. Make suggestions to the referee as to the appropriate call.
4. Tell players on the field what to do (only coaches on the coaches' side of the field may do this).
5. Make negative comments directed at any player or team.
6. Raise issues with my coach about his or her coaching on game day. If I have an issue, I will raise the issue privately with the coach at another time and place.
7. Behave disrespectfully towards any league representative.

As a parent, I may only cheer positively for any team. I understand that there are other rules that may be applicable to spectators and I am responsible for knowing these rules.

For Recreational Teams : I also understand that my player is participating a recreational soccer league. This means that every player must play at least 50% of the game (each League encourages equal playing time for all). The goal is for teams to share equally in winning and losing and learn how to win and lose with good sportsmanship. Also, recreational teams may not try out players, select players based on ability or cut players who are not "competitive enough." The only exceptions to these requirements are for players who miss practice on an unexcused basis or are disruptive to practice.

I understand that if I violate any of these rules, I will jeopardize my child's and my child's team's ability to play soccer in youth leagues in San Francisco

I have read and agree to adhere to the "Joint League Spectator Code of Conduct".

CONCUSSION Information Sheet

This sheet has information to help protect your children or teens from concussion or other serious brain injury. Use this information at your children's or teens' games and practices to learn how to spot a concussion and what to do if a concussion occurs.

What Is a Concussion?

A concussion is a type of traumatic brain injury—or TBI—caused by a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or by a hit to the body that causes the head and brain to move quickly back and forth. This fast movement can cause the brain to bounce around or twist in the skull, creating chemical changes in the brain and sometimes stretching and damaging the brain cells.

How Can I Help Keep My Children or Teens Safe?

Sports are a great way for children and teens to stay healthy and can help them do well in school. To help lower your children's or teens' chances of getting a concussion or other serious brain injury, you should:

- Help create a culture of safety for the team.
 - › Work with their coach to teach ways to lower the chances of getting a concussion.
 - › Talk with your children or teens about concussion and ask if they have concerns about reporting a concussion. Talk with them about their concerns; emphasize the importance of reporting concussions and taking time to recover from one.
 - › Ensure that they follow their coach's rules for safety and the rules of the sport.
 - › Tell your children or teens that you expect them to practice good sportsmanship at all times.
- When appropriate for the sport or activity, teach your children or teens that they must wear a helmet to lower the chances of the most serious types of brain or head injury. However, there is no "concussion-proof" helmet. So, even with a helmet, it is important for children and teens to avoid hits to the head.

How Can I Spot a Possible Concussion?

Children and teens who show or report one or more of the signs and symptoms listed below—or simply say they just "don't feel right" after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body—may have a concussion or other serious brain injury.

Signs Observed by Parents or Coaches

- Appears dazed or stunned.
- Forgets an instruction, is confused about an assignment or position, or is unsure of the game, score, or opponent.
- Moves clumsily.
- Answers questions slowly.
- Loses consciousness (even briefly).
- Shows mood, behavior, or personality changes.
- Can't recall events prior to or after a hit or fall.

Symptoms Reported by Children and Teens

- Headache or "pressure" in head.
- Nausea or vomiting.
- Balance problems or dizziness, or double or blurry vision.
- Bothered by light or noise.
- Feeling sluggish, hazy, foggy, or groggy.
- Confusion, or concentration or memory problems.
- Just not "feeling right," or "feeling down."

Talk with your children and teens about concussion. Tell them to report their concussion symptoms to you and their coach right away. Some children and teens think concussions aren't serious or worry that if they report a concussion they will lose their position on the team or look weak. Be sure to remind them that it's better to miss one game than the whole season.

Centers for Disease
Control and Prevention
National Center for Injury
Prevention and Control

Concussions affect each child and teen differently. While most children and teens with a concussion feel better within a couple of weeks, some will have symptoms for months or longer. Talk with your children's or teens' health care provider if their concussion symptoms do not go away or if they get worse after they return to their regular activities.

What Are Some More Serious Danger Signs to Look Out For?

In rare cases, a dangerous collection of blood (hematoma) may form on the brain after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body and can squeeze the brain against the skull. Call 9-1-1 or take your child or teen to the emergency department right away if, after a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or body, he or she has one or more of these danger signs:

- One pupil larger than the other.
- Drowsiness or inability to wake up.
- A headache that gets worse and does not go away.
- Slurred speech, weakness, numbness, or decreased coordination.
- Repeated vomiting or nausea, convulsions or seizures (shaking or twitching).
- Unusual behavior, increased confusion, restlessness, or agitation.
- Loss of consciousness (passed out/knocked out). Even a brief loss of consciousness should be taken seriously.

Children and teens who continue to play while having concussion symptoms or who return to play too soon—while the brain is still healing—have a greater chance of getting another concussion. A repeat concussion that occurs while the brain is still healing from the first injury can be very serious and can affect a child or teen for a lifetime. It can even be fatal.

Revised 5/2015

Discuss the risks of concussion and other serious brain injury with your child or teen and have each person sign below.

Detach the section below and keep this information sheet to use at your children's or teens' games and practices to help protect them from concussion or other serious brain injury.

What Should I Do If My Child or Teen Has a Possible Concussion?

As a parent, if you think your child or teen may have a concussion, you should:

1. Remove your child or teen from play.
2. Keep your child or teen out of play the day of the injury. Your child or teen should be seen by a health care provider and only return to play with permission from a health care provider who is experienced in evaluating for concussion.
3. Ask your child's or teen's health care provider for written instructions on helping your child or teen return to school. You can give the instructions to your child's or teen's school nurse and teacher(s) and return-to-play instructions to the coach and/or athletic trainer.

Do not try to judge the severity of the injury yourself. Only a health care provider should assess a child or teen for a possible concussion. Concussion signs and symptoms often show up soon after the injury. But you may not know how serious the concussion is at first, and some symptoms may not show up for hours or days.

The brain needs time to heal after a concussion. A child's or teen's return to school and sports should be a gradual process that is carefully managed and monitored by a health care provider.

MYSL ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RISKS

The collective effort and sacrifice of San Francisco residents staying at home limited the spread of COVID-19. But community transmission of COVID-19 within San Francisco continues, including transmission by individuals who are infected and contagious, but have no symptoms. Infected persons are contagious 48 hours before developing symptoms (“pre-symptomatic”), and many are contagious without ever developing symptoms (“asymptomatic”). Pre-symptomatic and asymptomatic people are likely unaware that they have COVID-19.

Sports, dance, and cardio/aerobic exercise are higher risk for COVID-19 transmission, and have been linked to numerous outbreaks. In other parts of the U.S., youth sports have been a significant source of COVID-19 spread among youth. The risks are generally much higher indoors than outdoors for these activities. But these activities are higher risk for COVID-19 in any environment because people breathe much more air when exercising, and have close contact in many sports. During exercise, a person with COVID-19 breathes many more infectious droplets into the air. The infectious droplets in their breath travel further because they are breathing harder. People are also more likely to be infected during exercise because they are breathing more air.

The availability of organized youth sports activities hosted by a school program, childcare program, or out of school time program, is an important step in the resumption of activities. But the decision by the Health Officer to allow organized youth sports activities that follow required safety rules, does not mean that attending and participating in organized youth sports activities is free of risk. Enrolling a child in organized youth sports could increase the risk of the child becoming infected with COVID-19. Moderate-contact and high-contact sports, which can require frequent, close contact between participants, increase the risk of COVID-19 transmission. While the majority of children that become infected do well, there is still much more to learn about coronavirus in children, including from recent reports of Multisystem Inflammatory Syndrome in Children (MIS-C).

Each parent or guardian must determine for themselves if they are willing to take the risk of enrolling their child in organized youth sports, including whether they need to take additional precautions to protect the health of their child and others in the household. They should carefully review the SFDPH COVID-19 youth safety guidance at <http://www.sfdcp.org/CovidSchoolsChildcare>. They should particularly consider the risks to household members who have a higher risk of severe COVID-19 illness, including older adults and other people with chronic conditions or compromised immune systems. Parents and guardians may want to discuss these risks and their concerns with their pediatrician or other health care provider.

More information about COVID-19 and MIS-C, is available on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention website at <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/>. See sfdcp.org/covid19hcp for a list of groups at higher risk for severe COVID-19

I understand the risks associated with enrolling my child in organized youth sports, and agree to assume the risks to my child and my household. I also agree to follow all safety requirements that the Host of the organized youth sports activity imposes as a condition of enrolling my child.

I understand that, during the time my child is participating in this program with MYSL, he/she may not attend or participate in any other programs.
